Summer Puppet Caravan Begins Series Monday

The Summer Puppetry Caravan arrives in Murray on Monday, July 16, for a week-long series of performances and workshops at the Calloway County Public Library.

The Caravan, making its 10th summer tour, is comprised of four students and a director from Berea College, Ky. Three hand puppet shows, two marionette shows, and a special shadow puppet show are the traveling stock this summer from a total repertoire of fifteen shows.

A Puppetry Workshop also will be held each morning for five days from 9:30 to 12:00, July 16 through the 21st. The workshop involves members of the community, both adults and children, in constructing puppets and producing a show to be given on the last Workshop day. People may register for the free workshop by calling or stopping by the library. A limit of 60 people will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

The Caravan has scheduled "Punch and Judy," the centuries-old hand puppet show which features audience participation. The unpredictable nature and variety of this show make no two alike. "The Dragon's Ordeal" stars a real fire-breathing dragon who gives a hot-foot to a bumbling knight, and delight to the audience.

Marionette shows, the special pride of the Caravan, are "Dwarf Long Nose" and "Green Gourd." These productions exhibit the skill and delicacy of the puppeteers' art. Usually the marionette casts are larger and the stories more complicated, lasting approximately forty minutes.

A special feature this year is the shadow puppet show. Shadow puppetry is an exciting and magical form of traditional puppetry. A specially designed addition to the troupe's stage allows for the performance of this tale which unfolds like a large brilliantly-colored picture-book in motion with figures dancing across the page. Dates for the public performances will be announced later and they will be presented in the library reading garden and the library auditorium.

The Summer Puppetry Caravan was originated and is directed by Neil Di Teresa, Associate Professor of Art at Berea College. Student puppeteers for the tour are Julia Weatherford, a junior Art Major from Berea; Nick Miller, a graduate of Berea College from Dilly's Bottom, Ohio; Connie Klinefelter, a Nursing major from Bell County, Ky., and Mark Mueller, a junior Classics major from Pittsburg, Calif.

The Caravan, begun with cooperation and funding from Berea College and the Rockefeller Foundation, and subsidized this summer with a grant from The National Endowment for the Arts, is a non-profit program. The Public Library is being funded for the workshop through a "special projects grant" given by the Department of Library and Archives with the cooperation of Murray State University.

"As not much in the art of puppetry has been offered in Western Kentucky, we are pleased to be able to offer this workshop which should appeal to those working with Senior Citizens, youth groups, educational institutions, and many other groups where communications are involved," said Margaret Trevathan, librarian.

City School Board To Hold Special Called Meeting Thursday

A special called meeting of the Murray Independent Board of Education will be held at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, July 5, at the board office building.

Of Tax Collections The Past Year

State Will Meet Fund Estimate

By SY-RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — You can make a case either for signs of prosperity or recession in the preliminary estimates of state tax collections the past year.

Revenue Commissioner Maurice Carpenter says the state will meet its estimate on the general fund, which finances most state operations and services.

"And coal tax receipts have bounced back after a long slump. Last May, collections from the severance tax were the highest in any month since the levy was enacted.

Yet, receipts from the 5-cent sales and use tax, traditionally a key economic barometer in Kentucky, have been sliding proportionately and will not reach estimates for the year.

And, just as Kentuckians are not buying as many goods as anticipated, they also are holding off on automobile purchases, which is reflected in declining collections from the 5-cent motor vehicle usage tax.

All in all, Carpenter said Monday, the state will obtain the $1.670 billion for the general fund which was predicted when figures were revised during the special legislative session last February.

The precise data on tax collections for fiscal 1978-79, the year which ended last Saturday, won't be available for about two weeks, Carpenter said.

He said the brightest area, and at the same time the biggest mystery, is the upsurge in severance tax collections.

Fiscal officials told legislators months ago that the state would be lucky to obtain $133 million for the year from that tax because of a coal strike and severe weather the previous winter.

Combined with a declining market in spot coal prices, the outlook for coal tax revenue looked bleak.

Nonetheless, Carpenter said, the final figure on collections will be as much as $6 million over the estimate.

"Yet everyone in the coal industry has been singing the blues," he said. "The reason for the gain is unexplainable right now."

Most coal tax receipts go into the general fund, but some are used to build and maintain coal roads.

Carpenter said the general sales tax is going to yield as much as $10 million less than expected.

He said the reason is obvious: "people are not buying in the last three months as they have been."

Individual income taxes will reach about $5 million above the estimate, Carpenter said, "because everyone has got an increase in salary and we get a percentage of that."

Corporation income taxes are the most difficult to estimate, since businesses indulge in complex accounting and depreciation practices. The revenue commissioner said his guess is that the anticipated receipts will fall slightly short.

The same holds true for the road fund, which Carpenter said could drop $5 million below predictions.

The motor vehicle usage tax is part of the road fund and so is the fixed 9-cent per gallon state tax. Carpenter said it appears there has been a recent decline in travel in Kentucky, which means the state obtained less in gas levies.

Artist To Sell Prints Of Work

West Kentucky artist Ken Holland will unveil his newest painting at 10:30 a.m. Monday, July 9, during a press conference at the Calloway County Public Library. The painting was commissioned by the Humane Society of Calloway County.

The public is invited to attend the press conference-reception to be held from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the library during which time the artist will personalize all prints purchased.

The sale of prints will benefit the Humane Society. The painting is one of more than 500 original paintings done by Holland. All are copyrighted.

A native of western Kentucky, Holland and his wife Bethel maintain a studio five miles west of Benton. They travel to one-man shows and art exhibits throughout the country. His prints are shipped to 39 states and to Canada and Japan.

Holland studied commercial art for two years at Art Instructions Inc. in Minneapolis. However, he found that instead of commercial art, he wanted to paint the "things that mean something to people."

Holland is often asked about the tiny little mouse that appears in the corner of all his paintings. He created the mouse when he was a boy. The question mark over the mouse's head indicated that he was trying to figure out what Holland had drawn.

Later in life, Holland became a sign painter and painted the mouse with his name at the bottom of his signs. After a few years, he decided to drop the little mouse from his work but his customers refused to pay him until the mouse appeared on the sign.

A few years ago, Holland began to paint serious art and the little mouse moved up in society. Once again, Holland tried to drop the mouse, but without success for as Holland's fame grew, so grew the little mouse. It has now become a well-known trademark on all of Holland's paintings.

Wilson Tells Housing Rules At Hazel Meet

In the June 23 town meeting at the Hazel Community Center, an explanation of the guide lines for qualification to participate in the housing rehabilitation program was given by Larry Wilson, program director.

He added 34 applications had been approved to date.

Mayor Joe Thompson outlined the inadequacies of the present sewer and water system. He pointed out it does not meet health department standards and must be improved.

J. Robert Taylor, chairman of the South 641 Water District, covered the improvements that are included in the proposal and urged citizens to vote favorably on the referendum in November.

The project will involve more than $1 million, of which 75 percent is from federal grant.

NEW DOLLAR AND OLD QUARTER — The Susan B. Anthony dollar coin, which made its national debut Monday, is only a bit larger than the quarter. Officials at the local banks said today that many persons were coming in, and asking to trade a dollar bill for a new dollar coin. Nationwide the public seems to be welcoming it although it is as yet uncertain whether Americans want the coin as a souvenir or as common currency. The Bureau of the Mint manufactured half a billion of the coins and is minting more at the rate of 80 million a month. The new dollar bears the profile of Miss Anthony who devoted most of her life to crusading for the vote of women.

Tenn-Tom Foes Accuse U.S. Of Hearings Delay

ABERDEEN, Miss. (AP) — Opponents of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway accused the government Monday of trying to delay further hearings in their suit against the project.

The charges were contained in a document filed in U.S. District Court. It follows a memo filed June 25 in which the U.S. Justice Department opposed a speedier hearing of remaining issues in the suit.

The project would link the Tennessee River with the Gulf of Mexico via the Tombigbee River.

A coalition of environmentalists and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad claimed its rights would be violated by the delay because construction is continuing while the matter remains dormant in the court. About $902 million in work is now under contract, and another $144 million has been completed, the document said.

HEALTH Keep your health, too

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like for you to tell me how to lose some weight. I'm a young man and I weigh 240 pounds. I've been running, not constantly, but I do a lot of exercise and I still can't lose weight.

DEAR READER — Unless you're very, very tall you do indeed have a major weight problem. I think when a person has a really excessive weight problem he simply has to be under medical supervision to eliminate it. There are too many things that can go wrong with excessively restrictive diets or if a person gets too compulsive about losing weight and eats the wrong foods. Finally, there's the motivation factor of having someone supervise your program regularly and keep you on it.

I don't know that it's absolutely necessary that you run every day but I would certainly like to see you develop a walking program every day. If you could just walk an hour a day it would help you a lot.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 47, Weight Losing Diet, which you can use as a guide to a balanced diet for your program. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. If you can just restrict your calories enough and walk enough or do enough other exercise to lose a pound a week and then be patient, eventually you will lose your weight without losing your health.

It's not difficult for doctors to cause people to lose weight. The real problem is losing weight and keeping your health. You can wash a lot of water out of the body with pills or even by certain diet fads, but that doesn't eliminate fat and it can dehydrate the body and cause problems. It can wilt the body just like a lack of water can wilt a plant. The trick is to lose weight safely which usually means slowly.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was told I have some calcification in the aortic knob. My doctor didn't explain this to me. What is this and is it serious and what can be done? Is it a heart condition? All I was told is that at my age it's not surprising. I am 62.

DEAR READER — We have one large artery that carries all the oxygenated blood from the left side of the heart to the rest of the body. This artery originates from the heart and is called the aorta. It's a very large artery. It goes upward from the heart toward your neck. It then makes a U-turn and goes down along your spine. Eventually, when it gets nearer the bottom of the abdominal cavity, it divides into two main branches to go to each of your legs.

The place where the aorta makes a U-turn looks on an X ray like a knob. That's why it's called the aortic knob. Your doctor is telling you that you have calcifications in the wall of your aorta in that area.

Such calcifications are related to the overall process of atherosclerosis — the deposit of fatty-cholesterol material. As long as the changes are just in the wall of a very large artery, they do not cause any significant problems. It's when such changes occur in the small arteries, like those to the heart muscle, that you get into difficulties.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. R. WILLIAMS

Have you ever been awake at daybreak and heard a Mockingbird singing from the top of a tall tree? It is a most delightful sound and an uplifting experience. He sings with such fervor as if he is too happy to keep it all inside and has to tell the world about it. I was tempted to join him in song out at the door in the fresh morning air. The world is so lovely at that time of day and I started my day with a smile.

Did you ever see anything grow as fast as the grass, unless it is the weeds? The combination of rain and hot weather is all that is needed, and you almost have to chase them down with the lawn mower. But other plants are growing too. So far, rain and sunshine have been pretty evenly balanced. Let us hope it continues during July and August, the months that are the hardest on flowers, if it is very dry.

One old-fashioned flower that has been changed and improved by hybridizers is the Celosia, or better known in the old days as Cockscomb. I was reading a most interesting article in a garden magazine and the pictures that accompanied it were almost unbelievably attractive. The modern sort is a far cry from the old stiff spikes of a dark red color.

Now they come in white, yellow, pink and even variegated. They are soft and feathery and would make a fine addition to any bouquet.

I always admired the people who are interested in hybridizing. With their knowledge and persistent efforts, they have evolved some of the loveliest of new creations. Not only have they improved the appearance of a flower, but have added hardness and have increased the sweet scent of many of them. Each year new plants are announced, making such a wealth of beauty that it is hard to decide which kind to buy. And I usually wind up getting more than I should, or even have room for, because I can't make up my mind which ones are prettiest.

Every article I read continues to use the three magic words for the summer — cultivate, mulch and water — and they will bear repetition. These three activities are the life savers for shrubs and flowers during the remainder of the hot months. Cultivation to aerate the soil. Mulch to keep out the heat and keep down weeds, and plenty of water. It is an unbeatable team and will mean so much when the cold weather and icy rains come later. These are two busy months for the gardener.

If Parents Pay, They Have a Say

By Abigail Van Buren
1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The parents of an 18-year-old girl wrote: "Dear Abby: Our daughter has graduated from high school and has steady employment, so now she says she can do as she pleases. She is living at home (free), but she doesn't care what anybody thinks about her actions."

Her "old-fashioned" parents want to know if we have the right to set some rules for her. We have asked her to be home by 1 a.m. when she goes out on a date. (She's been coming home anywhere from 2 a.m. to 4:30.) When we object to her going to her boyfriend's apartment to watch TV for an evening, she says we have "dirty minds."

She tells us if we don't "get off her back" she will move out and rent with girlfriends. Of course, she is trying to assert her independence, but we think she's overdoing it. Please give us bewildered parents some guidelines.

Bewildered"

Your reply:

"Dear Bewildered: Tell your daughter to sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out exactly how 'independent' she is. Advise her that when she is able to support herself entirely—and that means pay for her room, board, clothes, transportation, entertainment, travel, doctor, dentist and insurance—then she may live where she chooses, and by her own rules. But as long as she lives with you, she will have to live by yours."

Abby, I strongly disagree with your advice. It is just this sort of thinking that is tearing families apart.

It is very clear that, to live at home, most young people with strict parents must remain celibate—which also means they must leave home to have normal sex lives. We no longer live in an age where people wait for marriage to enjoy sex; modern contraceptives have removed the original reason for this thinking. We now have parents who still cling to old-fashioned standards—and try to force them on their grown children—well past the point where they make any sense.

Given the choice of staying home and following their parents' rules or moving out, most children leave as soon as they're financially able. And from what I've seen, most parents are always sad to see them go.

My advice to most parents would be: "If you want to keep your children home, loosen up a little bit. Make them share some responsibilities at home (financial or whatever), ask that they consider your feelings, but allow them to function as adults."

ELLEN B. IN BROOKLYN

DEAR ELLEN: You ask parents to "loosen up a little bit" in order to keep their children from moving out. How "loose"? Loose enough to say nothing when their kids stay out all night, or bring a date home for the night or weekend? Most parents (including this one) can't accept that kind of behavior.

The privilege of living by one's own rules is for mature, independent people. And mature people support themselves. Please re-read my answer above.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Miss Hiter Wed To Mr. Hooks

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hays Hooks

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hiter of Benton Route Four announce the marriage of their youngest daughter, Mary Elizabeth to Tommy Hays Hooks, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hooks of 312 N. 6th St., Murray.

The double ring ceremony, performed by Brother Mike Tune, minister of the East Wood Church of Christ, Paris, Tenn. was solemnized at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 2, in the livingroom of the University Christian Student Center, 1403 Olive Blvd., Murray. The UCSC was the scene of the couples meeting during Murray State University's fall semester of 1971.

The bride descended the entryway stairs where she was met by her groom and escorted by him into the livingroom. The ceremony was conducted in front of the fireplace, the mantle of which was adorned with yellow candles in copper holders, surrounded by magnolia blossoms. The hearth was fastooned with magnolia blossoms, honeysuckle, wild daisies and other assorted wild flowers.

The bride was attired in a short sleeved, floor length dress of white eyelet embroidery. Her hair was crowned with white silk daisies, a yellow silk rosebud and other small silk flowers. She carried a silk bouquet of white daisies, yellow rosebuds, yellow carnations and appleblossoms.

Miss Ann Tutt of Murray and fiancée to the bride's younger brother, was in attendance as maid of honor. She wore a sleeveless, off the shoulder, floor length dress of yellow eyelet embroidery. Her hair was adorned with small silk flowers. She carried a silk bouquet of a single large yellow carnation and two each of white daisies and rosebuds.

The groom's best man was his brother Ronnie Hooks of Murray. The wedding was attended by family members and close friends.

The new bride has been teaching school at the Potter Home School in Bowling Green. Mr. Hooks is a finance specialist in the U.S. Army, currently stationed at Ft. Campbell.

The couple is making their home in Clarksville, Tenn.

Although lightning kills more people in the United States than either tornadoes, floods or hurricanes many are not aware of the danger of thunderstorms.

Lightening deaths may not attract the national attention of floods, hurricanes and tornadoes, but according to the National Weather Service for a ten year period of 1968-1977, there were 22 deaths and 86 injuries reported in Kentucky alone.

You don't need an official warning to know that a thunderstorm is approaching. In almost all cases, you can see the towering thunderstorm ahead and occasional flashes of lightning.

When a thunderstorm threatens the most important single thing to do is to get inside a large building or an enclosed truck or car. Many outdoor recreationists overlook the fact that their enclosed metal automobile is an excellent lightening shelter. Even if the car is struck, the current is discharged harmlessly to the ground.

Those who are in the vicinity of a thunderstorm can avoid death or injury from lightening by taking a few precautions.

Those indoors should avoid using the telephone, except in cases of emergency. Don't take a shower, since metal objects like plumbing fixtures should be avoided. Avoid electrical appliances, TV sets, and open doors and windows, too. When it's impossible to reach safety, do not stand under a natural lightening rod, such as a large tree in an open field.

If you're outdoors avoid projecting above the surrounding landscape. Don't stand on a hilltop, in an open field or on the beach, and don't fish from a small boat.

Open water should be avoided, and those caught in the rain should stand away from metal vehicles, fences, pipes, rails and other metallic paths that could carry lightening from some distance away.

In a forest, it's best to seek shelter in a low area under a thick growth of trees. If you are isolated in a level field or prairie and feel your hair stand on end, this is an indication that lightening is about to strike. In this case, you drop to your knees, bend forward and put your hands on your knees. This position minimizes the chances of lightening using your body as a conductor.

Many people who are apparently killed by lightening can be revived if quick action is taken.

First aid should be given to those not breathing within three minutes of less to prevent serious brain damage. Those with knowledge of cardiopulmonary resuscitation can follow the basic CPR procedure in trying to revive the victim.

Galaxies, like the stars in them, form clusters.

Letter To The Editor

McBrayer Says Thanks

Dear Editor:

During the recent Democratic primary for Governor, I had the opportunity to meet thousands of Kentuckians as I traveled throughout the state. And even though I was not victorious on May 29th, Mary and I were blessed with many, many new friends. For us, that is a victory worth mentioning.

I will be forever grateful to all my friends and supporters for the hard work and help they gave throughout the campaign. Because of them, the mood of our campaign was always one of confidence and optimism—not simple optimism about our chances for victory, but optimism about the future of Kentucky. Today, despite our loss, our optimistic attitude remains.

As a private citizen, I will continue to pursue the same goals for Kentucky that I proposed as a candidate for public office. We know that no problem in Kentucky should escape solution. Men and women, whether they are actively involved in government or not, can help find the answers. I have every confidence that the citizens of Kentucky will not let our leaders fail us.

To my supporters and many friends throughout Kentucky, Mary and I want to convey our deepest, heartfelt thanks for your interest, your hard work and support, and your ever-present enthusiasm. Because of you, we gained far more than we lost on May 29th.

Sincerely,
Terry McBrayer
Lexington, Ky.

Funny

Funny World

Leopold Godowsky was an insomniac who, after retiring for the night, would lie awake for hours, unable to fall asleep.

His son, who occupied an adjoining room, experienced no such difficulty. He was in slumberland the moment his head touched the pillow, and he did not open his eyes until morning, when he bounced out of bed, refreshed.

One night, when Godowsky was staring at the ceiling, as usual, he felt an urge for companionship. Entering his son's room, he turned on the light, slammed the closet door shut and shook the bed until the youth woke up. Then, leaning over him, the pianist inquired solicitously:

"What's the matter, son? You, too, can't sleep?"

FROM THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Millions Of Gallons Fuel Wasted

SENATOR HOWARD M. METZENBAUM (Ohio) "...I am submitting today (a) newspaper article which represents editorial opinion throughout the country on the subject of deregulation in the trucking industry...I ask that (it) be printed in the Record..."

(From the Chicago, Ill., Sun-Times)

FOR DEREGULATING TRUCKING
Deregulate the airlines, opponents said, and the industry would fly to hell in a handbasket. Nevertheless, the airlines and their unions have been dragged kicking and screaming into fare and route competition. The results: better load factors, lower fares, and record profits for the industry. Now it is trucking's turn.

Back at the Justice Department, antitrust lawyers are busy drafting a bill, that would repeal a law passed over President Truman's veto in 1948. It gave the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to exempt regional trucking rate bureaus from antitrust laws. As a result, trucking firms have formed a kind of over-the-road OPEC in order to fix prices.

Mr. Kahn is now chief administrator of the Carter administration's wage and price guidelines; and is advocating trucking deregulation. Some of the regulatory idiocies that drive up road hauling costs and that drive Mr. Kahn up the wall are "gateway" and "empty backhaul" rules.

Take the case of a trucker authorized for service from Chicago to Madison (142 miles) and from Madison to Milwaukee (92 miles) but not authorized for direct service between Chicago and Milwaukee (92 miles). That trucker can lawfully serve Chicago and Milwaukee only by carrying cargo through the Madison "gateway" a route 129 miles longer than the direct one between the two cities.

The Justice Department figures that allowing truckers to operate on the shortest routes would not only increase competition but also save up to 51 million gallons a year in fuel and $139 million transportation costs annually.

Similar savings can be expected if firms hauling goods from one market to another no longer required to return to the first market empty.

The Teamsters union with its 2.3 million members carries more clout than the airline unions. The Teamsters fear that trucking deregulation will weaken the union, which will be negotiating a new contract with road haulers next year.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Asking the American people to adjust their thermostats a few degrees, won't begin to solve the energy crunch. Of prime importance is, that government regulations that allow huge amounts of fuel to be wasted, be rewritten; and fast.

The Story Of

Calloway County

1822-1976

By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

Murray baseball team, provided summer relief for a harried citizenry, highlighted by a classic clash with the Boston Bloomer Girls, an all girl team, which attracted more attention by their revealing bloomers than their ability to play hardball. But the gals with the floppy bloomers gave the crack Murray team fits before the Murray boys nosed out the Bloomers in the 11th inning. Viewing women in bloomers, much less playing hardball, created a stir of major agitation from pulpits to quivering bees. One outspoken critic suggested the city council pass an ordinance "forbidden women from wearing clothing more transparent than a picket fence." A picket fence would have been a stately barricade compared with that aggregation of black bloomers for they were a motely looking squad of tough looking gals, chewing tobacco between squirts of profanity to stun the spectators in the plank bleachers at Moore's Field down near the tracks.

Halley's Comet maintained its brilliance as it did to heighten anxieties with rumors should it hit the earth it would blow the place to kingdom come, thus alienating the relationship the religious interpretation with the Star of Bethlehem to a celestial doom and accelerating anxieties lingering to Night Riders with a super bomb. One observer declared he had seen it "and hadn't teched a drap in 30 days."

But the band played on. The W.O.W. purchased band instruments "to have a sure-enough live band," after pleading with Prof. H. C. Brasfield to instruct T. W. Patterson, T. D. Smith, Frank Pool, Roy Edwards, Joe T. Parker, Harold Schroader, Paul Patterson, W. D. Osbron, Ocean Decker, Gaston Pool and Gibson Hale in the notes of blowing and beating the thing-a-bobs.

Early schools were a paramount interest and the presence of J. H. Kellogg, the "Corn Flakes King," stirred a mighty commotion when he arrived at Calloway's Industrial Academy at Hazel to visit with two of his adopted sons. The nationally-famous manufacturer, lecturer, and natural food proselyte, was enroute to New Orleans for a lecture appearance at the time of the visitation.

On another educational note, it is recalled that two graduates were honored at commencement exercises at Murray High School. They were Lorena Barnett and Mary Williams. In addition, school teachers' salaries had been increased to a minimum of $33.33 and maximum of $66.66 per month for county schools after the school board asked a 20 cents property levy per hundred dollar property valuation and $1 poll tax for the use of county schools. Inflation was becoming an increasing problem with post office lock boxes for large drawers being assessed 75 cents a quarter (three months), large box 60 cents, small box 45 cents and call boxes 25 cents.

JULY 1979 THE SAN DIEGO UNION/UCPEL NEWS SERVICE

Garrott's Galley

By M. C. Garrott

Some Chaperones Surely Earn A Special Place In Heaven

There simply has to be a special place in Heaven for Randy and Vicki Sorrow and Richard Poe. Randy is minister of youth at First Baptist Church; Vicki is his wife, and Richard is director of the Baptist Student Union out near Murray State.

A couple weeks ago, the three chaperoned 21 young people from the church to St. Louis in two vans for a day at the big Six Flags over Mid-America amusement park. The trip seemed jinxed from the moment they started at 6 a.m.

In addition to the Sorrow and Richard, the youngsters along were Mark Young, John Denham, Todd Mills, Dana English, Martha Lyle Pittman, Randy Halley, Jeff Garrott, Vaughn, Richie Robison, Doug Betti Moore, Carol Beaman, Charles Beaman, Carol Spann, John Wissman, Brent Clark, Mark Hussung, Loryen American Horse, Charles Woods, David Bailey and Eric Lovins. At 11:30 a.m. — 5½ hours after leaving Murray — they pulled into the huge parking lot at Six Flags only to have some people drive up beside them with the news that one of the vans was losing water.

Now, if you've ever been on one of those big amusement park parking lots, you can imagine the hike it is to a telephone, and off Randy and Richard went to check with the church office back home on their next move.

Both the pastor, Dr. Bill Whitaker, and the minister of education, Tom Moody, who sort of oversees the vans, were in Houston, Tex., at the Southern Baptist Convention.

Randy and Richard were on their own to get the crippled bus repaired and back to Murray. So, back out to the van they hiked, a distance of some half-a-mile.

As you would expect, the water pump had gone out. This was confirmed by an accommodating mechanic provided by Six Flags, but to replace it was beyond his capability. He suggested that a garage in nearby Pacific, Mo., be contacted.

So, back to the phone went Randy and called the garage. The first question he was asked was what size engine was in the van. He had no idea — another trip out to the van to find out.

With his tongue almost hanging out from all the walking, he called back some 20 minutes with the information only to learn that the garage man had checked his water pump inventory. The size of the church's van, he said, used five different sizes of water pumps, depending on the engine. He had one of each size. He could repair the van in 4½ hours.

Bible Thought

He shall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth that he may judge his people. Psalm 50:4

A just God is in control of all things. He will bring us all before the judgment seat of Christ. Do we trust and obey?

Thoughts In Season

By Ken Wolf

Are we often discouraged by the disasters and defeats of our own century (when compared with a supposed "golden age" that existed in the past) only because we have come to expect so much of ourselves?

This question was raised twenty years ago by the American thinker Charles Frankel in his book, The Case for Modern Man (1955). In Frankel's words, "men's happiness depends upon their expectations — and the expectations of modern men have grown tremendously."

This is the setting in which our present sense that we are going to the dogs must be understood. If there is now a wide-spread sense of guilt and failure, it is in part because humanitarian feelings have increased. If the existence of poverty oppresses us, it is because we do not think it is inevitable.

By then, it was well after 1 p.m. Although the kids had long since gone into the amusement park and were having a ball, Randy and Richard had done little other than hike back and forth between the van and the telephone.

Once a wrecker had towed the van to Pacific, the two of them joined their group in the park. At 4:30 p.m., they again called the garage. The van would be ready to be picked up in 45 minutes.

Luckily, Richard had a Master Charge credit card, and they were able to get it out of the shop. Returning to the park, they heaved a sigh of relief, relaxed and enjoyed themselves before gathering their charges together and heading for Murray at 8 p.m.

About 45 minutes out of St. Louis on I-64, the power steering went out on the same van, as did the water pump for the second time. Fortunately, an exit was near and they limped into a service station which was about to close.

Another telephone call — this one to one of the church secretaries with the request that the parents be notified of the problem and to expect a very late arrival.

Then they called the Pacific garageman. Luckily, Randy had remembered his name. Leave the van at the service station, they were told. The man would pick it up and repair it the following day. It was then 10:30 p.m.

Although the second van seats only 12, all 24 sardined themselves into it and again headed homeward.

As they limped along toward Mt. Vernon, trouble struck again when a rear tire blew out. Fortunately they had a spare, and it was soon on, but it was the following day before they learned that the spare wheel had been put on backwards.

Although a '76 truck stop at Mt. Vernon was blocked by angry, striking independent truckers, they managed to place one more phone call to minister of music Wayne Halley, who along with Ray Clark met them just north of Metropolis in the church's other van.

It was 4 a.m. when the weary youngsters finally were delivered to their homes. But that's not all.

One week later, Randy hitched a 5:30 a.m. ride back to St. Louis to pick up the supposedly repaired van, riding up with a group from Memorial Baptist Church making a similar trip to Six Flags.

All went well on his return until he neared Benton, Ill. There the van threw a fan belt, overheated and for some unexplainable reason lost its transmission fluid.

It was a three-mile walk to the nearest exit and help. By then it was 4:30 p.m., and Randy had walked the first two miles before a fellow on a motorcycle gave him a lift. "I've only been on a motorcycle two or three times in my life," he chuckled, "but I didn't hesitate to get on that one."

A wrecker was summoned and the van towed to West Frankfort. About 9:30 p.m., Randy Cunningham, one of the deacons, showed up and towed Randy and the troublesome van on into a sleeping, midnight Murray.

The van is repaired now and supposed to be in top condition. It had better be. It is scheduled to leave at 5 a.m. Thursday with a load of the church's Montana mission team — a group of 25 youngsters and adults headed for the Northern Cheyenne Indian reservation in northwest Montana to conduct Bible schools.

Randy is one of the adults going along.

"Aren't you skeptical about setting out on a three-day, 1,500-mile trip in that van?" he was asked.

"Yes, to be honest, I am," he grinned, "but they say it is in good shape. We can only go on faith."

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A wooden floor can squeak its way through its entire existence without any threat to its life or those who walk upon it — but it sure can be an annoyance.

Just as with metal, wood squeaks when two parts rub against each other. In the case of a floor, it occurs when two boards do the rubbing, usually as somebody steps on them but sometimes during the movement of the wood under certain low humidity conditions. A loose nail, moving up and down, also produces a cry of protest.

It is easy to eliminate the squeak when the underside of the floor can be reached, as in the case of a basement or a crawl space. In that event, you will need an assistant, someone to walk across the floor as you, from an underneath position, locate the area of the noise. Sometimes the squeak can be silenced merely by driving a few wedges between the flooring and the joists. Sometimes it is necessary to drive screws upwards from the bottom of the subfloor into the finish floor, but you must be sure to use screws that go through the subfloor and into the finish floor without coming out through the top side. To make the job easier, especially if the floor is made of hardwood, drill pilot holes for the screws. When driving home the screws, your assistant should stand on the spot to bring the two layers of flooring together.

When the squeaks are in a floor where the underside is inaccessible, nails can be used, but they must be ring or spiral nails or any type which has more holding power than ordinary nails. These nails should be hammered into the floor at an angle so that, when inside the wood, two of them form a loose V. Here again, especially with hardwood, drill pilot holes for the nails. As each nail head gets close to the wood surface, use a nailset to hammer it slightly below the surface, later filling the tiny hole with wood putty or some other wood filler. Usually, it is better if the nails go through the flooring into the joists or beams, but sometimes the squeaks will disappear when the nails only go into the two layers of flooring.

There are some temporary ways to halt squeaks in a floor. One is to spread some bath powder or graphite powder in the areas of the noises. I once read that, when the underside of a floor is accessible, the application of a rubber-type adhesive between the joists and the flooring will make the noises disappear, but it is a method I have not tried personally and can only pass along without commenting on its merits. With the bath powder or graphite powder, the remedy — when it occurs — lasts a matter of weeks or months, depending on how long it takes for the powdery material to wear away.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — Part of the outside of our house is stucco. I intend to paint it soon, using exterior latex masonry paint. Is it possible to use a roller for this job in view of the rough surface of the stucco?

A. — Yes. Use a roller with a thick nap. Be sure the roller is generously laden with paint each time you use it and stroke it well into each section. It might be a good idea to keep a brush handy so that it can be used if you run into any area where the roller does not thoroughly get between the stucco crevices and indentations.

Q. — The rungs on two of our kitchen chairs have become loose. One of these days I will get around to fixing them. While the glue in the sockets is drying, what's the best way to hold everything in place? Will an ordinary piece of twine around the chair legs take care of the clamping?

A. — Yes, but it's better to use something heavier than twine, such as a clothesline. After the rope is wound around the legs, place a stick in the rope and tighten it like a tourniquet, then brace the stick so that it holds everything tightly together. There are many other ways to keep the rungs in place while the glue is drying. There are special chair clamps, strap clamps and various other kinds of clamps. No matter which method you choose, be sure to use some type of adding under the rope or clamps to prevent the chair from being damaged.

Q. — I have a large, expensive hand saw. If I use paste wax on the metal, will it keep it from rusting?

A. — Yes, but since the sawing action may remove some of the wax from time to time, you will have to check to see whether to renew the coating in certain places.

Q. — After a recent windstorm, I noticed that some of the shingles on our old asphalt roof were a bit loose. Should I put nails in the edges to hold them down or use asphalt cement?

A. — Use the cement. Apply it under the lifted edges and press down on the shingles. A small putty knife is best for the job. If the top of the shingles have any cracks in them, be sure to put some of the cement in the cracks.

(All the whys and wherefores of roofing are included in Andy Lang's Roofing Guide, which also includes an asphalt-shingle color guide. It can be obtained by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

If you don't understand the different ways windows waste cooling as well as heating energy, and don't know the right solution to each specific problem, you could be spending too much to make them energy efficient, or you could be spending less and accomplishing next to nothing. The storm window is not a cure-all; neither is replacing your old windows always the best economic solution.

If you are going to invest wisely in window energy conservation measures, you must first determine whether your problem is infiltration, or conduction, or both. And you must understand that these problems affect your cooling efficiency as well as your heating bills.

In the Good, Old Summertime

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

When balmy breezes waft and billow, the urge to open the windows, to breathe in the wonderful air, to lighten your cares and to "summerize" your surroundings is almost irresistible. But how do you turn a winter cocoon into a summer nest, we wondered. And it seemed a likely kind of question to put to some interior decorators.

"Rearranging the furniture is an excellent way to take advantage of a lovely spring and summer view," said Irv Frank, a designer who works in the New York area.

"In a house in the suburbs, I recently created two alternate arrangements for the furniture. In the winter, the seating was turned to favor a corner fireplace. But when spring comes, the family can rearrange the furniture so that it faces the windows."

Just cleaning a room and removing all the clutter that has accumulated over the winter is a good method of lightening up your environment, he added.

Traditionally, a room is summerized by removing the heavy area rugs, such as Orientals or shags, and substituting a sisal rug or straw matting.

If your floors are finished with a durable coating and are attractive, try sending the rugs out for cleaning and storage and enjoying the pleasure of a bare wood floor during the summer.

Many types of draperies and curtains are heavy and darken a room. They can be removed for cleaning and storage. Not only will their removal lighten your room considerably, but it will also prolong the life of your curtains, since dirt abrades most fabrics and shortens their life.

Many families will have to substitute sheer window coverings for privacy. But if your situation is private, you can leave the windows bare, or hang plants where the curtains used to be.

"Although once upon a time spring was a sure sign for a thorough and body-numbing spring cleaning which included removing the rugs and draperies and taking out the slipcovers, slipcovering has become rather a thing of the past."

"Upholsterers charge almost as much to slipcover a sofa or a chair as they would to recover it. And this has cut into the slipcover business," explained Frank.

Sometimes, in very grand circles, people will have several sets of slipcovers to create a variety of decorative looks. But, for most homes, the day of the slipcover has gone.

However, even if the investment is minimal, changes in decor may be brought about.

"Try getting a different bedspread for the bed. You can also invest in an inexpensive wicker chair, store it over the winter and bring it out in the spring and summer. Another trick is to reduce the number and intensity of the lamps and lighting. You don't need so much light in the summer. And, of course, an added plus is that you may reduce your electric bill a little," added the decorator.

If you have a screened porch, you are all set for summer without doing a thing. Try relocating the main living area to the screened porch, suggests Frank Laning, another New York area decorator.

"First of all, paint the porch if it needs it (and it almost certainly will after a winter of

Adapting the underdeck design of redwood Design-a-Deck, you can build a simple but effective trellis with support posts set outside the deck area for maximum shade and visual impact.

Be sure to locate the deck and shelter so it will catch or provide escape from sun and wind, according to your needs. Generally, the southwest and southeast corners of a house are best for providing the right combination of sun and shade.

Trellising, in the case of heavy weather). Next comes furniture, preferably covered with a bright fabric to provide color. Plants are the third element in creating an attractive summer living environment," he added.

Other ideas from Laning: "If you have dried arrangements in your living room, put them away for the summer. They tend to look pallid when exposed to the intense light of summer."

Billie Jean Analyzes Semifinalists

Lloyd Eliminates King At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King shrugged off the disappointment of losing to Tracy Austin to analyze the chances of the four Wimbledon semifinalists.

Billie Jean believes two-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd is the most psyched-up of the four.

Lloyd plays Evonne Goolagong Cawley in one of Wednesday's semifinals. Defending champion Martina Navratilova meets the 16-year-old Austin, a Rolling Hills, Calif., schoolgirl, in the other.

"I think Chris is the toughest mentally of those who have come through," said

King, a six-time Wimbledon champion. "The semifinalists are of two distinct types. Chris and Tracy sustain their drive inwardly."

"Martina is physically the strongest — she is a brute — but emotionally she is up and down."

"Evonne really cares and her game suits these courts." But Billie Jean, still hoping to win a record 20th Wimbledon title in the doubles, would not be drawn on making a forecast, on either the singles or her own chances in the mixed and women's doubles.

Austin took more than two hours to beat Billie Jean 6-4, 6-7, 6-2.

"That was one of the best wins of my life," said Tracy, who trailed 0-2 in the final set. "I told myself to fight harder than ever."

Austin's semifinal opponent, Navratilova, took nine successive games against Australian Dianne Fromholtz to win 2-6, 6-3, 6-0 after losing the first set in just 20 minutes.

Lloyd outlasted Australian Wendy Turnbull 6-3, 6-4 after a 1½-hour baseline battle. "I have never lost to her and I found she couldn't hurt me," said Chris afterwards. "I think I am ready to play Evonne now. I haven't played her for 18 months, but I don't think her game has changed that much."

Lloyd, beaten by Navratilova in a dramatic final last year, feels she is better prepared mentally this time. "This year I am tournament tough — I wasn't last year. Having played Eastbourne (a recent Wimbledon "warmup" tournament) and won there, I believe I can do it here."

Cawley, who won the title in 1971, had a straightforward quarterfinal victory when she beat Britain's Virginia Wade — the 1977 champion — 6-4, 6-0 on the center court.

The Australian was very happy with her performance. "I felt fine. I was in good touch and feeling confident. When I am moving well that is when I am playing well."

Turnbull, well beaten by Lloyd, fancies Cawley's chances. "I think Evonne could be the danger," she said. "I know she would like to win. She has the kind of game to beat Chrissie and I think she could beat everybody."

New OVC Commissioner On The Job

Delaney Plans To Hit The Road, Visit Schools

By TOM McCORD
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Delaney says he doesn't plan to put his feet up after sliding behind the commissioner's desk at the Ohio Valley Conference headquarters.

Instead, Delaney, 31, who took over Monday, says he will hit the road visiting the conference's schools and coaches. "I feel I have to get out on the campuses and talk to the presidents."

During a meeting earlier this month of conference presidents, Delaney was appointed commissioner, succeeding Bob Vanatta, who resigned earlier to become commissioner of the newly formed Trans America Conference.

Delaney has spent much of the past four and a half years on the road as an investigator for the National Collegiate Athletic Association, based in Shawnee Mission, Kan.

"I've had a chance to see the country and get a larger view of intercollegiate athletics than I had before," Delaney said recently in a telephone interview.

Delaney's impressions will be put to the test as the 30-year-old OVC continues to face demands for more growth and more winning teams.

"I look at the conference not as a strong conference, but as a healthy conference," he said. "It's healthy because it seems to me that the athletic programs are in proper relationship to the academic programs."

Delaney said he wasn't yet familiar enough to comment about the recent rejection by OVC presidents for conference membership of the University of Tennessee at Martin.

But the possibility of adding new members to the eight-member OVC is something he expects to deal with, he said.

"I don't think expansion for expansion's sake is worth anything," Delaney said. "I like the natural boundaries of the conference. Some are spread out all over creation."

"I think that for a conference to have a stab at developing rivalries over a period of time there has to be a certain amount of homogeneity."

He said he would not be opposed to growth "if there would be an institution that would really do something for the conference. It's largely a matter of how the resident members feel."

Delaney said he hasn't reached any "hard and fast conclusions" about more television exposure for the conference.

Aside from gaining entrance to national tournaments, member schools might gain exposure through cable television, a possibility Delaney said he intends to pursue.

A native of South Orange, N.J., Delaney played basketball for the University of North Carolina until graduation in 1970. He finished law school at the university three years later.

He worked briefly as a staff attorney for the North Carolina General Assembly, then moved over to the North Carolina Attorney General's office.

But Delaney, the son of a basketball coach and co-captain of the Tar Heels his senior year, joined the NCAA, turning his lawyer's skills to work there.

"I guess athletics has always been my first joy. I was looking for something more filling," Delaney said.

Tommy John Taking His Lumps But His Pitching Not Affected

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Tommy John has been taking his lumps these days — not from American League opponents but from his own teammates on the New York Yankees.

On Saturday he was shagging flies in the outfield when one of the balls hit him on the right forearm. On Monday night, before he was scheduled to pitch against the Boston Red Sox, he was taping a television interview while the Yankees were taking infield practice when he was struck under the right ear by an errant throw.

"I was talking," said John, "and the next thing I knew I was on the ground. My head was going around and around."

John got up, was given some medication and then took the mound as if nothing had happened. He limited the rugged Red Sox to five hits and became the American League's first 12-game winner with a 7-2 triumph.

In other AL action the Texas Rangers blanked the Baltimore Orioles 2-0, the California Angels topped the Oakland A's 8-3, the Minnesota Twins beat the Seattle Mariners 7-0 and the Cleveland Indians defeated the Detroit Tigers 8-4 in 11 innings.

Jim Spencer's home run in the fifth inning snapped a 1-1 tie, Jackson homered in the sixth and the Yankees broke the game open with four runs in the seventh on an RBI triple by Willie Randolph, a squeeze bunt by Bobby Murcer and a two-run single by Lou Piniella.

Rangers 2, Orioles 0
Baltimore, which had won 22 of its previous 25 games, began a 12-game road trip by being blanked at Texas. The Rangers' Steve Comer, 8-6, scattered seven hits, struck out two and walked three.

Texas got both its runs in the third inning when Richie Zisk doubled, Johnny Grubb walked and Jim Sundberg doubled them both home.

Angels 8, A's 3
Don Baylor hit his fifth home run in five days, singled twice, scored twice and drove in three runs as California topped Oakland. Baylor leads the major leagues with 69 runs batted in.

Baylor singled to drive in one run and scored another as the Angels scored five times against Oakland's Mike Morgan, 0-2, in the third inning. He hit his 17th home run of the season off Mike Norris in the sixth.

Twins 7, Mariners 0
Darrell Jackson and Mike Marshall combined on a six-hitter and Glenn Adams had three hits and drove in two runs as Minnesota won its fourth in a row. The Twins broke the game open with five runs in the third inning capped by Butch Wynegar's two-run double.

Indians 8, Tigers 4
Jim Norris snapped a 4-4 tie with a bases-loaded triple in the 11th inning and came home on a sacrifice fly by Mike Hargrove as Cleveland defeated Detroit.

MCC Tourney To Feature Special Award For Outfit

A special award will be given tomorrow at the Murray Country Club to the man and the woman participating in the club's Fourth of July Flag Tournament and wearing, in the opinion of a secret panel of judges, the most patriotic outfits.

The tournament, one of the most popular of club tournaments for an Independence Day observance, will be played throughout the day with the participants free to play whenever and with whom they please.

The objective of a Flag Tournament is to see which players, men or women, can play the greatest distance on a number of strokes allotted to them, par plus their handicaps. Each is given a small American flag and this is planted at the spot where their last allotted shot comes to rest.

Two tournaments will be offered — one covering the 18-hole distance, and one for those wishing only to play nine holes. All participants, however, must start from the first tee, since all play is measured from that point.

Winners are determined simply by collecting the flags at the end of the day's play, and prizes will be awarded at a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the clubhouse.

In charge of this year's Flag Tournament is M. C. and Cathryn Garrott, while Bob and Peggy Billington and Clyde and Marilyn Adkins are in charge of the pot-luck dinner. Arrangements also are being made for a number of competitive activities such as frisbee throwing, relay races and the like for the children.

The entry fee for the Flag Tournament is $1.00 per person. The registration desk will be open on the clubhouse porch at 9 a.m., and anyone wishing to participate in the tournament may register and begin play anytime after that hour.

U.S. Picks Up 20 Medals In Pan Ams

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — An unexpectedly fiery and colorful American squad blitzed the competition and set the stage for a rout Monday in only the first day of activity in the VIII Pan-American Games.

American swimmers swept all seven gold medals up for grabs Monday and were solid favorites to do the same thing in today's six aquatic categories. Records were rewritten in every event.

The potent United States men's and women's basketball teams slaughtered their opponents, and controversial men's Coach Bobby Knight even managed an international competition rarity — being ejected from the game, even though his team was leading by 35 points at the time.

The U.S. medal haul of 20, including 10 golds, easily outdistanced everyone, with the Canadians, hopeful of beating the Cubans for second place overall in the Games, next with 11 medals. Only two, however, were golds.

The Cubans had a slow start, in fourth place with only one gold, but their strongest sports are yet to commence play.

Sixteen-year-old Tracy Caulkins led the swimmers with two gold medals Monday, and goes for her third in an attempt to garner five overall here — today in the 100-meter breaststroke.

The sensation from Nashville, Tenn., ripped off four

MSU Signs Top Indiana Pitcher To Grant-In-Aid

Mike Henning, one of the top pitchers in Indiana high school baseball last season, has signed a grant-in-aid with seconds from the record she had set in morning heat races in the 200-meter individual medley, and then teamed with the 400-meter medley relay squad that knocked an incredible nine seconds off the previous Games record.

Other individual U.S. gold medal winners Monday in swimming were Ambrose "Rowdy" Gaines, Winter Park, Fla., in the 200-meter freestyle; Steve Lundquist, Jonesboro, Ga., in the 100-meter breaststroke; and Bob Jackson, San Jose, Calif., in the 100-meter backstroke.

Gaines tried for another

Murray State University.

A three-year letterman for coach Quentin Merkle at Memorial High School in Evansville, Henning compiled a combined 23-0 record his junior and senior seasons and helped Memorial to a two-year 59-1 record.

Henning was 12-0 as a junior and Memorial went 30-0 and took the Indiana state championship. The 6-0, 165-pound lefthander fashioned an 11-0 record as a senior and a 1.23 earned run average with 91 strikeouts over 73 innings.

Henning pitched 33 innings of tournament baseball his senior season and yielded just five runs. Memorial won 59 consecutive games over two seasons before losing in the state finals this past season.

Henning was twice selected all-city, All-Southern Indiana Athletic Conference and first team all-state.

"He ranks right up there with the top players we've had at Memorial," said Merkle, who just completed his 10th season. "He's a crafty pitcher with an excellent curve ball and good control."

Henning represents the third pitching prospect from Memorial to join the Racers roster. Mark Wezet and Andy Rice are pitching alumni of Memorial and Murray State.

"He's a blue chip prospect with the ability to contribute as a freshman," Murray State coach Tommy Reagan said. "We're very pleased to have him with us because he's a quality athlete and a quality individual."

Reagan, who guided the Racers to their 22nd consecutive winning season and 10th conference championship last year, has also signed outfielder Ronnie Scheer of St. Mary (Ky.) High School, pitcher Brad Taylor of Murray High School and pitcher Randy Shively of Rend Lake (Ill.) Junior College.

Phillies Open Home Stand With 6-2 Win Over Mets

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Phillies were so happy to be back home in Philadelphia that they provided the fans and themselves with two surprises — a complete game and a victory.

"I guess it's home cooking," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark.

The 6-2 victory over the New York Mets Monday night opened a 14-game Phillies home stand. And it was the first time in 12 games that Ozark has not had to call upon his bullpen.

In other NL games Monday, Montreal blanked the Chicago Cubs 5-0, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 5-4 and the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the San Diego Padres 6-3 in 12 innings.

The Phils lost nine of 14 games on their last road trip and dropped 29 of their last 44 prior to Monday's victory.

It was Espinosa's third triumph of the season over the Mets, his former team, but he took no particular pleasure in the feat.

"I just happened to pitch three good games against them," he said. "I have no hard feelings against the Mets because they traded me."

New York jumped on Espinosa for its two runs in the opening inning as Joel Youngblood walked and Rich Hebner followed with his fifth home run of the season.

But Manny Trillo slammed a three-run homer in the fourth inning — his first home run of the season — as the Phillies pulled ahead to stay.

Pirates 5, Cardinals 4

Tim Lincecum singled home Omar Moreno, who had doubled, to snap a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning and give Pittsburgh its victory over St. Louis. The Pirates jumped out to a 4-0 lead before St. Louis rallied to knot the score in the sixth on Tony Scott's two-run double and George Hendrick's two-run single.

Expos 5, Cubs 0

Steve Rogers hurled his fifth shutout and eighth complete game of the season as Montreal blanked Chicago. Rogers scattered eight hits and was helped by two double plays.

The Expos had 11 hits, including two each by Andre Dawson, Tony Perez and Ellis Valentine, whose check-swing single with the bases loaded drove in the final two runs of the game in the seventh.

Dodgers 6, Padres 3

Steve Yeager slammed two home runs — including a gamewinning three-run blast in the 12th inning — and drove in five runs as the Dodgers snapped a six-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

TENNIS

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Tracy Austin mastered Billie Jean King, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 in a tennis classic and reached the Wimbledon semifinals for the first time.

Martina Navratilova, the defending champion, came back from a slow start to defeat Dianne Fromholtz of Australia 2-6, 6-3, 6-0. The 16-year-old Austin will face Navratilova in the semifinals Wednesday.

Chris Evert Lloyd outstroked Australia's Wendy Turnbull 6-3, 6-4 and Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia snuffed out Britain's hopes for a women's championship by hammering Virginia Wade 6-4, 6-0, setting up their semifinal match.

PANAMERICAN GAMES

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Ken Sutton, a roller skater from Muskegon, Mich., won the first gold medal presented in the VIII Pan American Games as the United States took an early lead in the medals race.

The American swimming and diving squads captured seven gold medals and 12 medals overall, while setting five new Pan-American records.

After the first day of competition, the U.S. team has a total of 20 medals, 10 of them are gold.

Rice Promoted To Class A With Astros

Andy Rice, former All-Ohio Valley Conference pitcher for Murray State University, has been promoted to the Houston Astros Class A farm team in Daytona Beach.

Rice, a 19th-round draft choice this spring by the National League club, made two appearances with the Astros' Rookie League team before being called up.

A southpaw from Evansville, Ind., Rice was the 'Breds' top hurler this season with a 7-2 campaign. He was named to the all-conference team twice and his teammates selected him the most valuable player in 1978.

DHR To Hold Public Hearing On Day Care Changes

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Department for Human Resources will hold a hearing July 10 to get public comment on proposed changes by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in regulations governing federally funded day care services.

The proposed rules cover administrative matters such as personnel training, social services and nutrition.

'Eyes And Ears Of World' To Be On State During Confabs

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky is getting ready, Gov. Julian Carroll says, to focus "the eyes and ears of the world on Louisville" through two governors' conferences which begin Saturday.

The highlight will be a visit by President Carter the coming weekend, and it also will include his trip to Bardstown for a Democratic fundraiser.

First, the Democratic Governors' Conference will gather Saturday and Sunday at Louisville.

Then the National Governors' Association, of which Carroll is chairman, will meet Sunday through Tuesday.

State Democratic Chairman Larry Townsend held a news conference at party headquarters Monday to announce plans to welcome the president.

He said Carter would arrive at Louisville late Saturday afternoon, then go to Bardstown as a special guest of state Democrats.

Tickets for the Bardstown event are $100 per person and include a reception with the president, a Kentucky pit barbecue dinner and admission to the Stephen Foster Drama, all on the grounds of My Old Kentucky Home.

Townsend said more than 650 tickets have been sold and "we're trying for 1,000 to 1,200."

The president will not be campaigning, he said.

The visit produced a slightly embarrassing situation for the Democrats when an aide to gubernatorial nominee John Y. Brown Jr. said last week there was only a 50-50 chance Brown would attend the Bardstown event.

But Brown later said the aide had been misinformed and that he definitely planned to be on hand.

Since that is the case, Townsend was asked, does Brown have no qualms about association with a president whose popularity rating nationally has dropped sharply in the past few months?

"I can't speak for John Y. Brown," the state chairman said. "It's going to be a real nice affair. Anytime the president comes to your state, it's an honor."

Carter is expected to address the crowd after the 6 p.m. dinner.

Townsend said proceeds from the event will be used for operating state headquarters, which is being reorganized after Brown's victory in the May 29 primary and the resignation of Marie Turner of Jackson, who had been caretaker chairman since controversial Howard "Sonny" Hunt quit earlier.

On Sunday, the president tentatively plans to attend a church service at Louisville. No details were available at this time.

Then he will address the governors' association, and the fuel crisis and future of the federal aid system will be highlighted.

"I want (the governors and president) to see Kentucky," Carroll said. "It gives us an opportunity to put our best foot forward."

Carroll is in charge of administrative operations involving a staff of 150 in the governors' association.

Requests for coverage have been received by 300 news writers throughout the world, the state reported.

Carroll said that is greater coverage than any events other than the national Democratic and Republican conventions held every four years.

Supreme Court Clears Way For Busing Ruling Shocks Louisville Heads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many officials of the Jefferson County, Ky., school system were caught by surprise by a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that cleared the way for the busing of 3,000 first-graders to achieve greater racial desegregation in Louisville area public schools.

The justices, voting 6 to 3 in a decision announced Monday, left intact a federal appeals court ruling that first-graders are not exempt from a school desegregation plan in effect since 1975.

Justices Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist voted to hear arguments in the case, but the votes of four members are needed to grant such review.

Superintendent Ernest C. Grayson, in a quickly prepared statement, said the school system's lawyers have "advised us there are no further remedies that the board may use. We had been hopeful that the high court might speak favorably to our appeal, since it had taken so long to act."

The consolidated school district of Louisville and surrounding Jefferson County is the nation's sixth largest, with 120,000 pupils.

About 23,000 pupils already are being bused for racial desegregation. Until now, the district's 10,000 first-grade pupils have not been included in court-ordered desegregation.

The Louisville schools controversy had reached the Supreme Court four times previously since 1973, and each time the justices refused to disturb court-ordered desegregation.

School board Chairman C.B. Young Jr. said he wished the court had agreed to hear the case, "but since they didn't, we'll comply with the law and do the best job we can of educating first-graders in a bused situation."

Board vice chairman Carol Ann Haddad said, "I think it's a shame. I hate the fact that they won't hear it. . . But at least we went as far as we could go."

Busing began in 1975 under orders by U.S. District Judge James F. Gordon, but the judge exempted first-graders after noting that many of the children had not attended kindergarten.

Gordon exempted first-graders several times thereafter, ruling that such youngsters should not be bused until a systemwide kindergarten program was available.

On May 10, 1977, Gordon ruled that any cross-district busing of first-graders would "significantly jeopardize the educational process for such children."

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, however, reversed Gordon's ruling last Oct. 20. "To exempt first-grade students from busing would leave vestiges of segregation intact," the appeals court said.

School officials then sought Supreme Court review.

"The requirement by the 6th Circuit that first-grade children with no prior formal educational experience be bused cross-district involving one-way trips of from 30 to 75 minutes merely to advance a predetermined degree of racial balance is indicative of its misunderstanding" of past Supreme Court rulings, school board lawyers argued.

Lawyers for black parents accused school officials of "grasping at their last hope of retaining some semblance of segregation."

In urging the justices to reject the school district's appeal, the lawyers for black parents said, "This court and this nation have gone too far in trying to eradicate the past to allow this type of legalistic jargon to prevail."

John Fulton, a lawyer who represented the school system in the desegregation suit, said he considered it interesting that the court waited until the last day of the present term of court to refuse the case.

"That must mean they gave us careful consideration. It wasn't just a perfunctory denial," Fulton said.

Thomas Hogan, who represented the plaintiffs in the desegregation suit, said he was pleased with the court's action. His response to the 6-3 vote was: "Close, but no cigar."

"The party is over," said Hogan. "There are no more avenues of appeal left."

Sales Stay High Despite Warnings

Tobacco Companies Give Documents

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Tobacco companies are giving the government internal documents that may show federal officials how the firms have kept sales high despite health warnings and advertising restrictions.

Arthur Adelberg, an attorney for the Federal Trade Commission, said Monday that companies started delivering documents recently after a legal fight that began in 1976, when the FTC subpoenaed them.

Adelberg said the FTC hopes the companies' market research documents will answer such questions as:

—Does the industry information show cigarette ads appeal to people under 18? The industry has maintained that cigarette ads are designed to hold their share of the market and not to convert new smokers. However, many youths take up smoking.

—What impact does the government-required health warning have? Packs must now say, "Warning: the surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health." The FTC has asked Congress to require sterner health warnings, such as, "Danger! Tests prove cigarettes can kill you."

—Are the companies trying to subvert the health warnings? "We'd like to know if they are trying to make it look healthy by showing young people and scenic outdoor environments," Adelberg said.

The studies on human behavior are expected to deal with a point made by Surgeon General Julius Richmond in his report on smoking issued last January.

"Because of the research over the past 15 years, much is now known about the health dangers of smoking. But research into reasons why the habit is so widespread and difficult to break is still in its infancy. Little is known for certain and questions far outnumber answers," Richmond said.

The six major cigarette manufacturers and 20 advertising agencies argued that turning over the large number of documents involved would be an unreasonable burden. However, U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker upheld the FTC subpoenas early this year.

In the latest announcement of a document surrender, Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. said Monday it will turn over nearly seven tons of internal documents to the FTC Thursday. Wilson W. Wyatt Jr., an official of the Louisville, Ky., based firm, said it took 24,000 man-hours and $800,000 to gather the vanload of materials.

Ernest Pepples, vice president and general counsel of Brown & Williamson, said, "The requirements of complying with this FTC subpoena are a good case in point as to excessive government interference into private business."

Brown & Williamson manufactures Kool, Viceroy, Raleigh and other brands.

"Each of us (tobacco companies) has a massive cloud hanging over us, and it will be there until the FTC decides what it is going to do and we can go back to just making cigarettes," Pepples said.

Adelberg said the FTC has not decided yet what action will be taken based on all the cigarette data. The options include an industry regulation on cigarette ads, pursuing false advertising cases against selected companies, asking Congress for legislation and publishing a report of findings, he said.

The subpoenaed materials go back to 1964, the date of the first surgeon general's report on health hazards of smoking. The subpoenas call for all "marketing, advertising or consumer surveys," experiments or other research on the benefits and dangers of smoking, why people take up the habit and difficulties in stopping smoking.

The industry has tripled its spending for cigarette advertising since 1964 despite a ban on broadcast advertising that took effect in 1971. While there have been numerous studies connecting smoking to health problems, the industry has maintained that the case against cigarettes has not been scientifically proven.

Other cigarette makers issued subpoenas are: American Brands Inc.; Liggett Group Inc.; Lorillard, a division of Loew's Theatres Inc.; Philip Morris Inc., and R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc.

The ad agencies are: Leo Burnett Co.; Post-Keates-Gardner Inc.; Ted Bates & Co.; Wells, Rich, Greene Inc.; Young & Rubicam Inc.; De Garmo Inc.; Kenyon & Eckhardt Inc.; Foote, Cone & Belding Communications Inc.; Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne Inc.; Grey Advertising Inc.; F. ## State Traffic Fines

Reduced By $17.50

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Most traffic fines in Kentucky have been reduced by $17.50 through legislation that took effect last Saturday.

The revised law was passed during last winter's special session, which dealt among other subjects with the fine structure.

One portion reduced by $5 the $15 minimum increase on traffic fines approved by the 1978 General Assembly in regular session.

However, the net cut is greater because court costs also are reduced, resulting in most cases in a net decline of $17.50 in traffic fines.

In non-contested cases where the fine is prepaid, the cost is reduced $2.50 for speeding offenses and by $12.50 for other violations.

HEALTH

Slow recovery

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you can put my mind at ease. I've been having a problem with my 7-year-old son. About six months ago he developed swollen glands in his neck. He had been complaining of being tired so I took him to a pediatrician. He ran some tests for mononucleosis and found it was negative and he took a throat culture which came back positive so he put him on antibiotics.

This swelling never went down and different people say that he's pale and tired looking. I took him back to the doctor and he said he had had swelling too long and he did a whole new series of tests on him. These tests were all negative. He then told me to wait a reasonable length of time and to come back for another check.

Also he runs a temperature of 99 to 100 frequently. Have you any suggestions at all?

DEAR READER — I'm not sure what the throat culture was for in the case of your son but I would presume it was for a strep throat. You've certainly done all of the right things. Some people don't always recover as quickly from streptococcal infections as others and some children take a little longer to develop resistance to some of the common bacterial problems including streptococcal infection.

One of the complications of a streptococcal infection is rheumatic fever which has a variety of manifestations and sometimes doesn't cause any symptoms. It would take a while in the absence of other symptoms to determine if that were the case.

Your son may appear pale but if the blood tests were all normal, which would also mean he's not anemic, I wouldn't be too concerned about the color of his skin.

I'm not so sure what the body temperature really means. Many healthy youngsters have body temperatures as high as 100 degrees in the late afternoon. For that reason I would be hesitant to say definitely that your son has a fever without knowing more about the time that the temperatures were taken and how accurate they really were.

Many people don't appreciate the wide variation of body temperature within a 24-hour period. It can vary as much as three degrees in perfectly normal people. The low point is usually in the early hours of the morning and the high point is in the late afternoon or evening. This is the diurnal cycle of body temperature which we all have to some degree.

To give you more information on what you might expect from the variability of body temperature, I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-6, Body Temperature And Fever. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In any case, it sounds like your son is being adequately supervised and if anything of major medical importance is wrong, I'm sure it will be discovered at a time to give him optimal treatment.

I should like to add to all parents that if their children do develop unexplained nodules or lumps under the arm, neck or other place, it's a good idea to have them examined. It's pretty hard to guess what a lump is just by feeling it and not knowing anything else about the blood tests or medical factors related to the case.
